

Dr. Ashok K. Singh Dean, TCA, Dholi

He born in a village of Pratapgarh district (U.P.) in the year of 1958, he is presently working as Dean of Tirhut College of Agriculture, Dholi and Professor & Head in the Department of Extension Education, Dr. Rajendra Prasad Central Agricultural University, Bihar. He received his Ph.D. degree from Magadh University and advanced training from Center for Psychological Study of Social Change and National Development, Department of Psychology, Allahabad University, Allahabad. He is teaching various specialized courses of social science and extension education at the undergraduate and post-graduate level and associated with numerous research projects in the area of agricultural and rural development of National and International importance. He supervised twelve M.Sc. and three Ph.D. Thesis of Extension Education and published more than sixty research papers/articles in Indian and Foreign journals of repute, apart from various research reports/monographs and two books (1) Technology Assessment and Refinement through Institution Village Linkage Programme, 2005, R.A.U, Pusa (1) Pioneer Research in Extension Education, Scientific Publishers (India), Jodhpur. 2008. Dr. Singh also travelled many countries like Australia, Thailand, Sri Lanka, Philippines, Bangladesh and Nepal for his academic journey. He is highly praised Extension Education Scientist and administrator.